

Sithembiso

Today I continued working on the website in the morning, focusing on improving the security features and overall functionality.

As the ICT team, we also held an Idea Lab session where we identified different challenges we are currently facing and started working on solutions. We then assisted with fixing email accounts for several people, as many of them did not have working emails. We managed to make progress, although we did not finish all of them.

Later, I joined the Marketing team for another Idea Lab session. We discussed what marketing is about, what can make our team unique, and shared different ideas on how we can improve our approach. We also worked together with Mr Davids during these activities.

Thank you.